

What's working in the niche

PATTERN

Amy Porterfield's top reels this week have almost nothing to do with tactics — they're personality, relationship (her husband Hobie), and mindset. Her single biggest reel (15.6x her median) is a podcast clip about her marriage, opened with a provocative question; meanwhile her tactical 'comment TRAINING' launch reels languish at 20-50 likes. The reach engine is HER, not her frameworks. Like Caroline, every reel still routes through a comment-keyword funnel (POD65, NEWSLETTER, TRAINING) — but Amy funnels to a podcast / newsletter / free training, not a hard pitch. Takeaway for an established expert: personality + relationship + a sharp question hook drives the reach; the tactics convert later, inside the funnel.

HOOK · SPOKEN (PODCAST CLIP)

How do you feel being married to a woman that makes all the money?

FORMAT

Podcast Clip / Partner Interview

BREAKDOWN

A podcast-trailer clip of Amy and her husband Hobie talking about their marriage and being a 'team' — explicitly 'no strategy today,' pure personality.

▼ TRANSCRIPT

How do you feel being married to a woman that makes all the money? Because it is the truth. We really came to an understanding that we were a team. I think that's what changed it for us. We've got really good established boundaries. You're out there on the court, I get to cheer for it. To me, that's exciting. I like that. I don't ask you to spend money or anything like that for my business, but you're very aware of what's going on and we are a team. You just need me to walk with you on this.

WHY IT WORKED

Her single most-engaged reel of the week (15.6x her median) has zero tactics — a provocative relationship question hook + a warm personality moment. People follow the person, not the framework. CTA funnels to the podcast (comment POD65).

HOOK · ON-SCREEN TEXT + MUSIC (NO NARRATION)

Cheering for someone in your same industry won't cost you a thing.

FORMAT

Text-On-Screen Mindset Quote (Collab)

BREAKDOWN

A bite-size text-on-screen abundance-mindset quote reel (a collab post that appears on her grid).

▼ TRANSCRIPT

(No spoken narration — a short text-on-screen reel set to music; surfaced via a collaboration with @stacytuschl. The message lives in the on-screen text + caption: the owners who really win aren't guarding their lane, they're running it; there's enough room for everyone; someone else's win doesn't shrink yours; be the person who claps loudly.)

WHY IT WORKED

A screenshot-worthy mindset statement — emotionally resonant and easy to share. Connection and belief, not a tactic; the collab also borrows the partner's audience.

HOOK · ON-SCREEN TEXT / CAPTION (BLOOPER, MUSIC)

I planned a clean little B-roll tutorial. Hobie had other plans.

FORMAT

Blooper / Behind-The-Scenes

BREAKDOWN

A behind-the-scenes blooper of her husband derailing a planned tutorial, posted unedited.

▼ TRANSCRIPT

(No spoken narration — music over a blooper clip of her husband hijacking a planned B-roll shoot. Caption: people don't connect with perfect, they connect with real — the blooper, the moment you almost didn't post; 'letting people into your world is not a break from the work, it is the work.' CTA: comment NEWSLETTER.)

WHY IT WORKED

Realness beat polish — the unscripted blooper outperformed her produced content that week. She names the mechanic herself: letting people into your world IS the work. CTA funnels to the newsletter.
