

DM Closer — Week 1 Reel Scripts

Built from the @misscarolineflett research. Her winning formula: a broad-appeal or curiosity hook (the spoken hook is never the offer) to win reach, then the niche offer lives only in the caption via a comment-a-keyword → DM funnel.

We apply the same machine to your world — closing in the DMs.

Your funnel keyword: CLOSER. Set an auto-DM (ManyChat / Instagram's native keyword reply) so that when someone comments CLOSER, they're sent your DM closing system. That comment → DM step IS your product.

Voice: calm, low, direct, in control. You serve, you don't chase. Human to human. No income or earnings claims — ever. Teach the move, not the money.

Cadence: 1 reel/day below (Caroline posts 2/day — double up by reusing a broad hack reel + a teaching reel on the same day once you're rolling).

Day 1 — Origin / authority

- Hook (say it, first line): "I learned to close at the hardest door in sales — a stranger who wanted me gone. The same move closes cold DMs."
 - On-screen text: The hardest close in sales 📌
 - Format: talking head
 - Script: "When someone's reaching for the door — or leaving you on read — you never fight the 'not interested.' You agree, then redirect. 'Totally — that's actually why I reached out.' Then one real reason you're there. No pitch. Just curiosity. The door taught me that, and it works the exact same in the DMs."
 - Caption: The door taught me to close — calm, no chasing. Now I do it in the DMs. Comment CLOSER and I'll send you my DM closing system. 🙌 Save this · Follow for more.
 - Why it works: origin + proof hook (like her "journey" reels) builds authority; keyword funnels the reach.

Day 2 — Broad-reach phone hack (reach play)

- Hook: "Phone trick for anyone who sells in the DMs — I wish I knew this sooner."
- On-screen text: Reply 3× faster 📌
- Format: screen-recording demo
- Script: Show iPhone Text Replacement (Settings → General → Keyboard → Text Replacement). Save your best DM openers and objection responses as shortcuts — type ;open and your full opener appears. "Never retype your best lines again."
- Caption: Stop retyping the same DMs all day. Speed = more conversations = more closes. Comment CLOSER for the actual words I use to close in the DMs. Save this 📌
- Why it works: a broadly useful hack = max reach (her top reels were phone hacks); still relevant to sellers; funnels to your niche.

Day 3 — The objection line (one sharp mechanic)

- Hook: "'Let me think about it' is never about thinking. Here's the one line that flips it."
- On-screen text: The think-about-it close
- Format: talking head
- Script: "When they say 'let me think about it,' don't push — lower your tone. 'Totally fair. Usually when someone says that, there's one specific thing they're unsure about. What is it for you?' Now you're handling the real objection, not the smokescreen."
- Caption: The objection they say is rarely the real one. Comment CLOSER for my full objection playbook. Save this for your next DM.
- Why it works: contrarian + curiosity hook; one clean, usable mechanic beats a list of fluff.

Day 4 — Listicle: the 3 people in your DMs

- Hook: "There are only 3 types of people in your DMs — and you close each one differently."
- On-screen text: 1 · 2 · 3 📌
- Format: listicle talking head (count on fingers / text overlays)
- Script: "One — the window shopper. Watches everything, never replies. Don't pitch; open a real conversation. Two — the tire-kicker. Fishes for free advice. Don't just answer — ask about their situation first. Three — the ready buyer. Already leaning in. Stop selling and assume the close: offer two times and let them pick."
- Caption: Most people close all three the same way — and lose two of them. Comment CLOSER for the script for each. 📌 Save this.
- Why it works: numbered/listicle = save-worthy (her "4 strategies / 6 hacks" format).

Day 5 — Stop chasing (push-pull)

- Hook: "Stop chasing leads in the DMs. Watch what happens when you pull back."
- On-screen text: Push → pull
- Format: talking head
- Script: "Give value, then take a little away. 'Honestly, not sure this is even a fit for you yet — can I ask what you're working on?' That bit of uncertainty makes them start selling YOU on why it's a fit. Chasing kills the close. Calm wins it."
- Caption: Desperation repels. Calm closes. Comment CLOSER for the push-pull DMs I use. Follow for more.
- Why it works: pattern-interrupt hook; teaches your signature push-pull mechanic.

Day 6 — Assume the close / option close

- Hook: "Never ask 'do you want to buy.' Ask this instead."
- On-screen text: Two yeses, never a yes/no
- Format: talking head
- Script: "Once they've leaned in, don't ask if. Assume it. 'I've got Tuesday or Thursday to get you started — which works better?' Two yeses, never a yes-or-no. You're not selling anymore. You're just scheduling."
- Caption: The close isn't a question — it's an assumption. Comment CLOSER for the exact close-out messages. Save this 📌
- Why it works: bold contrarian command hook; instantly usable line.

Day 7 — The re-engage DM (story + broad relatability)

- Hook: "Someone left me on read for 6 days. Here's the message that woke them back up."
 - On-screen text: The re-engage DM
 - Format: talking head (or screen-rec of a mock thread)
 - Script: "No guilt. No 'just following up.' 'Hey [name] — no pressure at all, I'll assume the timing's just off. If that changes, I'm right here. Genuinely rooting for you either way.' You give them the easy out — and that's exactly why they come back."
 - Caption: 'Just following up' is where deals die. Comment CLOSER for my re-engage scripts. Save this for the next ghost. 🗑️
 - Why it works: universally relatable pain (being ghosted) + curiosity hook = shares; honest, serve-first move on-brand.

Filming notes (steal Caroline's mechanics)

- Hook in the first 1–2 seconds, said out loud AND as on-screen text. The hook is broad/curious; the offer stays in the caption.
- Keep it ~20–40 seconds. One idea per reel.
- Every caption ends with Comment CLOSER + "Save this" + "Follow." The comment spikes the algorithm; the auto-DM starts the close.
- Mix reach + authority: alternate a broad hack/story reel (Days 2, 7) with a teaching reel (Days 1, 3, 4, 5, 6).
- Set up the keyword auto-DM first (ManyChat or IG keyword reply) so CLOSER instantly sends your system — that's the whole funnel.
